

Dear Fellow Members,

This is just a note to convey some LCI news.

The lighthouse renovation is very near completion, with only minor finishing touches remaining. It looks beautiful (as you can see in the photo below) and the new door is very stout and (hopefully) vandal-proof.

Kudos to Deby Glidden and Richard Morawetz for their 5-year dedication and persistence in bringing this project to fruition and for shepherding it to a successful completion. The funding came completely from voluntary contributions, with a little left over to help with future maintenance.

The planking of the pier is also just about completed. It was a substantial undertaking.

Only the curbing along the sides and a nice barrier at the end remain to be done.

New face on the island. The new hard-working (part-time) employee on the island is Jovan Moss, who goes by "V." He is coming over on weekends to do odd jobs, relieving Charles and Jeff of some of the more menial tasks. If you need the sides of your drive clipped back, let Charles know, but it will probably be V who gets it done.

Jeff Deaver completes Captain's course. Having finished up his course work and passing the required tests means that we now have two full-time staff members with Captain's licenses. This should relieve us of having to engage so many charter captains to handle LCI boat trips. Congratulations to Jeff.

Dogs on Lease. Members are reminded that dogs should be on a lease or under strict control. This is particularly important to protect nesting birds on the beach and to maintain decorum on our boats. Dogs wandering around on the beach, dogs wandering around at the mound while owners load their gear, or dogs loose on boats are not in keeping with LCI guidelines.
